Juries Are Supposed To Safeguard Against Tyranny But They Cause It In the First Place

👤 sixie6e 📅 September 21, 2023 ✎ Edit

The only prerequisites for being a juror?

1. You have to beg for wealthy, suit wearing masters.
2. You can never have been caught/convicted violating the scribblings of those wealthy, suit wearing masters. This excludes Maine but as with everything else, the State often has ways around things that prevent it from doing what it wants:

certificate of discharge, which he cannot do until a year after the end of parole or probation. Id. § 22-3722.

393. See KY. REV. STAT. ANN. § 29A.080(2)(c) (Banks-Baldwin 2002) (disqualifying from jury service one who "[h]as been previously convicted of a felony and has not been pardoned or received a restoration of civil rights").

394. See LA. CODE CRIM. PROC. ANN. art. 401(A)(5) (West 2003) (disqualifying from criminal jury service one "convicted of a felony for which he has not been pardoned" or "under indictment for a felony"); LA. REV. STAT. ANN. § 13:3041 (West 1991) (incorporating criminal standard by reference for civil juries). The Louisiana Constitution provides that "[f]ull rights of citizenship shall be restored upon termination of state and federal supervision following conviction for any offense." LA. CONST. art. I, § 20. However, jury service is not considered a "right of citizenship" for these purposes. See State v. Haynes, 514 So. 2d 1206, 1211 (La. App. 1987) (explaining inapplicability of art. I, § 20 to jury service).

395. See ME. REV. STAT. ANN. tit. 14, § 1211 (West 2003) (providing disqualifications for jury service, none of which refer to criminal history). This does not necessarily permit criminals to serve on Maine juries. As one court official from Maine explained: "Although [incarcerated criminals] could be bound over day to day until they are free from incarceration, it is logical to excuse them from service for this term. Again, [it is] up to the individual judge." E-mail from Connie

They excuse those with a felony.

That's it. Two prerequisites. Can't have someone that has already been railroaded by the State potentially empathize with the next victim. If you refuse to accept $15 of the stolen, taxed labor of your peers to go help the State railroad a different peer, you take that peer's place. By wealthy, suit wearing, master wording – it is criminal to not help the State dominate, subjugate, exploit, and dehumanize your peers. The only reason a jury exists is because it's openly bogus to be tried by only State employees yet the State only lets certain people be jurors. Specifically, those most likely to agree with it.

The Constitution and the entire legal system are constructed around property and wealth, not human rights or quality of life for all beings. The economy is the State's pyramid scheme. If you file a civil suit against a State employee and ruling in your favor would negatively impact their pyramid scheme, then you lose. Human rights don't matter until lots of people rally behind you. Currently, with everyone yelling about their own zersetzung, the State doesn't have to try as hard to silence people. Zersetzung methods have been used by all oppressive governments of media influenced cultures (1920's Italy & USSR, Nazi Germany, the current United States). The methods were designed to break down, undermine, and paralyze people behind "a facade of social normality" in a form of "silent repression".<sup>[1]</sup>

Every safeguard we have against the State, the State finds a way around it. For example, if a jury is deadlocked, the court won't accept that. They issue an Allen Charge demanding the jurors in the minority to go with the majority. Judges are promoted by their 'ability' to clear dockets and generate/maintain federal debt credits for the court. A trial cuts into that severely just by happening at all. The government doesn't have the resources to try every case. Plus, it sometimes doesn't want to run the risk of acquittal.

Jurors are known for having severe biases and the State loves, loves, loves this:

Abstract

Juries in adversarial courts are tasked with several responsibilities. They are asked to: 1) assess the credibility and reliability of the evidence presented; 2) deliberate; 3) and then reach a decision. Jurors are expected to evaluate said evidence in a rational/impartial manner, thus allowing the defendant their right to a fair trial. However, psychological research has shown that jurors are not rational and can reach inaccurate decisions by being biased by certain factors. The aim of the current review was to explore the potential sources from which biases are introduced into the jury. Three main sources of bias were focussed upon: 1) pre-trial bias; 2) cognitive bias; 3) bias from external legal actors (expert witnesses). Legal scholars commonly cite deliberations as a method of attenuating individual juror bias, this claim is evaluated in the review. The review concludes that bias is a multifaceted phenomenon introduced from many different elements, and that several sources of bias may interact with one another during a jury trial to cause the Freedom to think whatever you want as long as you still physically comply with socially & environmentally destructive things, is still tyranny. Democracy and individual consent are mutually exclusive. You cannot support both and be rational/logical. Forcing your masters' preselected choices as 'options' that are existentially repulsive to another individual overrides individual consent. You don't force anyone, though. You beg wealthy suits to have their police do it. Democracy is tyranny's cousin 8 times removed. There have been about 8 generations of human since they annihilated the Native Americans to create their own version of the British Empire they claimed to want to escape. Remember when the State labeled American revolutionaries horrible things for challenging abusive authority? Read a book, parchment worshiper.

The prosecuting attorney in my case against American Police and their media outlets(i.e. centralmaine/kennebec journal/morning sentinel) is gay with black family. This is only relevant at all because if the majority grouped up and demanded that gay people, black people, or whoever are not allowed to be together or have certain 'rights', well then she finds the fallacy of her 'employment' present throughout the history of this corporate empire, and the inevitable civil war her coworkers are pushing society towards. Using my bicycle as example, I previously would ride on the shoulder against traffic to avoid any issues(the intelligent thing to do) but these local, politician worshipping hillbillies kept crying to police, so now I do what their rich masters scribbled, and it makes them even more furious! They beg wealthy suits to dominate their peers, then cry when the peers do as their precious masters instructed. I hate Maine. Politician/flag/boot worshipping, religious/nationalist, environment killing, peer dehumanizing, Srebrenica ass reruns. I am certain you can find your own examples in your own area of how begging rich people to dominate peers with boots creates conflict, not resolution, not peace(unless one submits, but even then the master worshipers still usually cry).

This is not my video, but as you can see I am not the only one constantly running into these mindless hillbillies with their blue collars cinched tightly, proudly thinking they own they road because they are on errand for master, angry that they have to pay attention, angry that they had to turn the steering wheel a bit to the left for a second. I pollute less and burn up less resources actively moving throughout the day, than they do sitting down.

Under this American system of begging suits to dominate peers with police behind ridiculous symbolism and corporate doctrines, no matter what is done, some will have their existence trampled, some won't, some will be proud of being trampled as it gives them the victim role, some will be proud of not being trampled and worship the abusive authority trampling others, some will be happy to see others getting fucked over, some won't care either way as long as they are left alone, some will conform just to be left alone but still fight when necessary, some such as myself conform only to things that aren't socially/environmentally destructive but the bottom line is that all will hate each other and usually default to the State for authority.

You cannot have a safe or healthy society when it is constructed around wealth. Especially using others to acquire that wealth as you sit on your fat ass, consuming, consuming, consuming. Clocked in is not actual labor for many, yet they cry as if it is such. State officials do negative labor as they divide and exploit those that do all the labor. They sit to eat breakfast. They sit to use the bathroom. They sit to drive to their clock in place, they sit at their clock in place, they sit to drive to go get lunch, they sit to eat lunch, they sit to judge/control others, they sit in meetings, they sit to drive home, they sit to eat dinner, they sit to (purposelessly & destructively) mow their lawn, they sit to watch television or read the papers, they sit at church, they sit their asses down all day every day except maybe to walk/drive to another chair. All while the people they pretend to champion, and condition to be proud, are doing grueling labor in factories and restaurants.

The mindless, militant, nationalist, system enforcing stormtroopers are atrocious humans and a severe threat to the general public as they mask it photoshoots with children/puppies but then utilize those puppies as biological artillery. Politicians(DA's, judges) use any centuries old, recent, or specific to that geographic region wording they can find or manipulate to protect them and remove people that have valid grievance. No accountability, qualified immunity, 100% justified shootings in the entire history of this almost pure white & racist ass state, broken windows policing, prison bed contracts, drug war, revgen policies, LEOBoR, the list goes on and on and on and on and on. Let's not forget the all symbolism & no substance, blue stripe phallus polishing, circle-jerk ceremonies patting themselves on the butts for their violence against and exploitation of the general public behind their masters' excess resources & obscene control.

The law is an intellectual ceiling. Its enforcers are still racist ass hillbillies with haircuts. Just because they took a shower and shaved and put on a blue costume doesn't change the lifelong conditioning in their stupid heads. They hate black people, they hate gay people, and just as with almost every single other social issue in society – that won't change by begging rich people to make them stop. A jury could stop the authoritarian abuse by the judicial section of the american corporate/State construct but they are conditioned to think those that exploit them, are there to protect them. Woe to those that challenge State abuse. It rarely ends well for them. That's why cowards voluntarily make careers out of working for the State. People that challenge socially/environmentally destructive garbage? They either end up dead or still locked in a box. If they succeed in overtaking the system with their own group/symbolism, they end up emulating their former oppressors. Such as Mandela. He fought Apartheid, but the system remained(begging wealthy masters to dominate peers with police).

Leave the environment that sustains us and people alone(unless they are destroying lives or the environment that sustains us). Take your corporate doctrines/laws, the mindless rhetoric you lob to try and defend it with, wrap them in the cloth with your favorite xenosymbolism on it – and then hang yourself with it. You'd be doing much less social damage and causing much less suffering. Leave those that want to be left alone the fuck alone or it's going to get nice and dirty. 50% of people conditioned to beg rich people, begging rich people, isn't permission for you stomp on the other 50%. FAFO corporate hillbillies. A rich suit scribbling you permission is not existentially valid morality.
