About the militant, nationalist, system enforcers and their wealthy, authoritarian, leash-holding, attorney masters.

Most Americans do not have the time, let alone mental focus, to read content-dense books. Certainly not books about existence that show how fucked up their daily behaviors and routines are. Unlike most people, I am not going to be quiet about others not having their basic needs met once I have my basic needs met. For the behaviors of its enforcers, I am not willing to be quiet and accept hush money, a payout from the taxed wages of others the State tramples. That would only permit the atrocious social behaviors to continue. When groups of people engage in a behavior, it is socially acceptable to that group. When someone challenges an individual in that group, they group up on the challenger. Republicans and Democrats are gangs for weenies, sadists, and materialists. They beg wealthy authority to dominate our peers with militant nationalists with violence. People that just want to be left alone are labeled crazy, extremists, etc. Groups will call the challenger anything they can as if by calling them that name, the things the challenger says become false. This is so the group can continue their depraved behaviors without conscience or interference. For example, many of the properties in my neighborhood are an infection, a scab on the planet. All sorts of machines, engines, waste, and christmas lights. Blue christmas lights for worshipers of the NKVD/OVRA/SS reruns. I did the math just on mowing residential properties in the United States and sent it to the local paper. The group called me crazy.

To the editor:

There are 142,153,010 residential properties in the United States. Let's say just 42,000,000 of those properties get the grass cut. [It takes approximately] 1.4 gallons of gas used on average per lawn, per week; 25 weeks of grass cutting. [That comes to] 1.06 billion gallons saved if you stop that ridiculous activity. Then there is the life killed and oxygen-producing leaves being cut. All for image and appearance. Humans are absurd.

I write my books and these disquisitions because I have to be able to defend myself. If I had not written them, many people who have read the boot bulletin board articles about me would be stuck with that Blue Stripe Narrative. Their worshipers swallow what they present no matter what, but people in this era go to social media to see who people are and often get a very different view of the person than the State tried to paint to them. The difference between articles by the boot bulletin board and what actually happened is disturbing. Many people hate centralmaine/KennebecJournal, WABI, and media outlets in general because of how they present things to manipulate and divide us. Each state has its own media loudspeakers. The media is utilized as a sort of 4th branch of the State. The Blue Stripe Bandits feed them what they want you to think. With loud, controversial charges like mine, people in that area(potential jurors) read the articles and obtain an opaque picture with an accompanying title meant to make the reader view the State's enemy as their own. "We say this person is a criminal so you should permit us to dehumanize, exploit, and kill them to maintain our revenue and social control!" Then we must trust them when they say they are unfamiliar with the case. We are slaves and police enforce the socially and environmentally destructive corporate construct. People think that they are free in America because they aren't black, in jail, or clocked in for all of their waking hours, and they own trinkets and baubles.

Labor

Slave labor on this Sea Island cotton plantation was performed according to the "task system." Under this system, each slave was assigned a specified amount of work for the day and upon completion of this task, the slave was permitted to use the balance of the day as he or she chose. Tasks in the fields were measured by units of a quarter of an acre (105 ft. square).

Tasking requirements outside the field were often defined as well. Ginning 20-30 lbs. of cotton was a daily task. A barrel maker's (cooper's) task might be set at constructing three barrels a day.

Under the task system, it was assumed that slaves would raise a variety of crops in their own gardens. These products could supplement the slaves' plantation rations, or be traded or sold through the plantation owner. While the task system was distinctive to the rice and Sea Island cotton plantations of the southeastern coastal region, the "gang system" was prevalent on plantations in Virginia and throughout the middle and western South. Under the gang system, slaves were worked in groups under the supervision of a driver (also a slave) and compelled to work the entire day for the owner's profit.

It disgusts me how people refer to the atrocities of 1930's Germany and 1920's USSR but then can't see the same social constructs are in place today, in our society. It isn't the Jewish(Holocaust) or the Ukrainian(Holodomor) people being exterminated this time, it is humans they have labeled criminals. Reinhard Gehlen taught the State well. A major social construct still in place is basic needs being sold as part of their pyramid scheme economy, then they punish people for the guaranteed resulting behaviors stemming from the forced resource competition. Disgusting.

Update on the legal situation with the white supremo boot worshiper that I sent to the hospital for straddling my back tire, trying to run me over, getting out, and coming back with a knife: I was told by the wealthy, virtue signaling, bogus victim championing, State suits they had until 2 weeks before the arraignment to make a charging decision. That day passed without them having reached a charging decision. I now do not have to appear for the arraignment date(12/11/2023). If they are going to charge me they apparently would have to resummons me. If the State suits decide to do so later, I asked my attorney for the simple respect of letting me show up instead of storming my residence as their OVRA/NKVD/SS reruns love to do. The State suit doesn't have to tell me or my attorney anything. Being that the State suit in my case just switched teams to run the public defender's office, the new wealthy, virtue signaling, bogus victim championing, State suit is Micheal Madigan. Just another State buttpuppet looking to make a name for himself while patting on the back those forcing us to exist this way. They made our social strife their business model.

The State Does Whatever It Wants. If I Missed a Deadline, I Wouldn't Be ...

From the beginning, I've just wanted to be left alone and for people to stop destroying life as they simultaneously and in cognitively dissonant fashion claim to value and protect it. Those in large number that do so, label the challenger, me, crazy or any other current, hot label of the hour used to rally people against someone. I've been called almost everything. I've debated online for years and resisted atrocious things in real life with my life. I get called both sides of socioeconomic things. When I challenge politician worshipers on their mentally defective processing, they assume I like whoever the other politician is. From their absurd perspective, if I am not on their team I simply must be on their enemy's team. Retards. People do violent things to me without legal charges but when I resist it I am a monster. That's law enforcement's favorite argument(see below).

Once trial process and jury selection begins, I have to rely on 12 flag waving nationalists that beg State suits to dominate our entire existence with violent police, to save me from the authoritarian abuse by those they begged to trample us in the first place. My charges are for resisting their violence, extortion, and social depravity. How is it fair or just that my panel of judges consists of those that most likely idolize them? The Blue Stripe Bandit flag is in courthouses. Severe, authoritarian bias. Police are known for doing dirty things, so even if members of my fate panel know I am in the right, they most likely will not say anything in my defense for fear of retaliation. As I discuss in this writing, the only prerequisites for being a juror are never having been caught, charged, and convicted of violating wealthy suit scribblings and you have to be registered be beg State suits to dominate your peers with militant nationalists.

Law enforcement loves, loves, loves to feign fear of their victims. It is the only way they have been able to justify their atrocious behavior to voters. I mean, if I were dominating, exploiting, and killing those I claimed to protect I would probably also fear retaliation but all across the board. Police culture is depraved. There is no justification for them doing what they do daily. Responding to traffic accidents? We have EMTs for that. Fires? Firemen. EMTs don't go run someone over so they can create someone to save in order to 'justify' their employment. Firemen are not out here torching homes so they can get some use out of their vehicles. Police enforce attorney wording. Attorney wording is revenue and control. Police create gangs by being one. Police create drug addicts by enforcing a system that dehumanizes them. Just as with police, 99% of my interactions with the people in my area are non-confrontational. With police I'm cold, with most people in my area, I have positive interactions. If you ask anyone that works at any store near where I live, you will get a very different Brent Elisens than the Maine State Police/CM/KJ/MS edition of Brent Elisens. If you ask anyone that I associate with, that is around me often, you will get a very different Brent Elisens than the Maine State Police/CM/KJ/MS edition.

Forensic psychology is a problem and I am trying to keep it out of my case. I have valid and severe grievances against the State and their mindless fucking enforcers that I am going to address in trial. Forensic psychology is a threat to that because whitecoats just have to scribble something and voila! "Brent's incompetent so now he gets locked up and he doesn't get a trial!" Abuse of psychiatry is a serious problem in countries where the State relies on social division to maintain their empire. Police that recorded police get booked into psych facilities for challenging fucked up things State employees are doing. Maine State Forensics already tried once to paint me as bonkers. They said I did things I didn't and said things I didn't. I had the entire day recorded, metadata, phone calls with police collaborating time on the audio and verifying where I was. I filed a suit against the State suits with the only form they permit. the suit was dismissed because I am currently involved in legal proceedings instigated by the State. Until conclusion of these proceedings, State officials are permitted to trample as much as they like according to federal robed tyrants. In the media article by centralmaine/Kennebec Journal they made it look as if I said Maine State Forensics defamed me. Lying about someone in legal paperwork to get them incarcerated indefinitely without trial is not defamation, that is an attempt on their life. If I were who law enforcement wants the mindless voters to think I am, Ann LeBlanc and several others would have been beaten to death. Voters love facts and data so consider this: How many kidnappings, murders, and rapes by Brent Elisens? Zero. How many kidnappings, murders, and rapes by American police? Countless. I act in self-defense, not just because that's my defense in court. Don't get physical with me. I value life, State employees only pretend to. My daily behaviors and routines prove this, as do theirs. They are not about solving social issues, but keeping the corporate construct in place that creates them, while attempting to mitigate them to profit from them. The State absolutely lies to its worshipers to do so. System representatives and enforcers love to pretend to be solving issues while behaving in ways that perpetuate those issues.
